

Elvis Ciuffetelli

FRONTEND DEVELOPER

Profile

I'm a web and mobile full stack Javascript developer with a strong focus on the React ecosystem, backed by several years of hands-on experience working on diverse projects.

I am particularly interested in UX and UI design, and I prioritize responsive web design and usability in all my projects. Proficient in Unit and E2E testing with Jest, Cypress and React Testing Library, I am committed to delivering robust and readable code to ensure top-notch software quality.

In addition to my professional work, I actively contribute to the open source community. You can explore my Github profile to see some of my contributions and personal projects.

Outside the tech world:

I'm passionate about weight training and I love spending time cycling and trekking in the mountains. It's my way to recharge, stay healthy, and keep a balanced life.

I also built tracciapesi.app, a web app designed for tracking workouts and monitoring gym progress over time. It's a tool I created out of personal passion for fitness and strength training, with features like custom exercise logging, visual progress charts, and a clean, mobile-first interface.
